Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:

It does not identify the mailing address of each inventor. A mailing address is an address at which an inventor customarily receives his or her mail and may be either a home or business address. The mailing address should include the ZIP Code designation. The mailing address may be provided in an application data sheet or a supplemental oath or declaration. See 37 CFR 1.63(c) and 37 CFR 1.76.

It does not identify the city and either state or foreign country of residence of each inventor. The residence information may be provided on either on an application data sheet or supplemental oath or declaration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for an additive and use thereof wherein the additive comprises RHEOCRETE CNI and POZZUTEC 20, does not reasonably provide enablement for claims that generically recite a "non-chloride type accelerator" and a "nitrate-based corrosion inhibitor". The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. These claims are considerably broader than the enabling disclosure of only one accelerator and one corrosion inhibitor and include myriad compounds neither contemplated nor disclosed by applicant. One of ordinary skill in the art would require undue experimentation to determine the scope of the substances that would fall within this claim language.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1755

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are indefinite in the recitation of a "non-chloride type accelerator" and a "nitrate-based corrosion inhibitor". This terminology is not adequately described by the specification and only one example of each substance is disclosed. Accordingly, it is not possible to determine the metes and bounds of the instantly claimed subject matter.

Claim 2 lacks a period at the end of the claim.

Claims 3 and 11 employ the language "% parts" which is unclear to the examiner.

Claims 5 and 6 contain trademark notations, which is improper. The actual composition must be claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

Art Unit: 1755

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Pub. No. 2003/0127026 to Anderson et al.

The instant claims involve an additive for cement comprising a non-chloride accelerator and a nitrate compound. The claims also recite a method for accelerating set time by adding this additive to concrete.

Anderson et al. disclose at column 7 that examples of accelerators for use in their concrete include non-chloride type accelerator and/or calcium nitrate. This disclosure is considered to adequately describe applicants claimed additive and the method for adding such to concrete. Column 9 discusses other additives such as fly ash.

The only difference between the instant claims and the reference disclosure is apparently the intended use language "for use in concrete at temperatures of..." and "accelerating the set time". The instantly claimed invention would have been obvious because "for use" is simply a statement of intended use and does not confer patentability on the claimed admixture. Regarding "accelerating the set time", it is considered that such would be an inherent characteristic of the Anderson et al. cement composition because it contains the same substances being claimed herein by applicants.

The limitations of all claims have been considered and are deemed to be within the purview of the prior art.

Art Unit: 1755

Conclusion

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
